

Care is better when it's personalized — and equitable

From the beginning, we have thought about medicine differently.

Since the 1940s, we have delivered the best medical care possible to our patients, regardless of race or creed. For decades, Permanente physicians have practiced in a collegial environment in which all people are treated with compassion and respect. Today, we are recognized for the diversity and inclusion of our care teams.

We believe that care should be delivered with sensitivity for — and understanding of — racial and ethnic differences. As a Permanente physician, you'll have access to one of the largest clinical databases in the world, helping you identify the specific health risks of your patients, so you can deliver the personalized care everyone deserves.

If you believe that medicine is not only a profession, but your calling, join us and find the support you need to make a difference.
